A Message From Fr. Hinterschied

In order to fulfill God's call on his life, Elisha had to follow Elijah. Elisha begins by offering up the remnants of his old life as a sacrifice.

Like Elijah, James and John want to call fire from heaven to destroy Jesus' enemies. While Our Lord corrects them for wanting to do this, they are on the right track in the sense that they possess zeal for the coming of the kingdom of God.

In our current culture, we tend to think of freedom like this: "I am free to the extent that I can do whatever I want." But if true freedom can only be found in becoming who we are, then we see that Elisha achieves freedom through discipleship of Elijah.

For Catholics, it's easy to fall into the trap of focusing on our obligations as mere obligations. It is important to understand that our obligations are pathways to freedom. Rarely does an artist or athlete achieve excellence by doing the minimum. The goal of Christian life is communion with God by conforming to Christ in the power of the Holy Spirit. We don't focus on obligations because we want to merely get by. Rather, we engage our obligations in order to become conformed to Christ, and thus to become free.

The purpose of freedom is that we might be servants of God and one another. The Catholic life is always oriented toward love for others and expresses this spirit of service in the works of mercy.

The moral renewal of our nation begins with the moral renewal we allow God to work in each of us. That's something to pray for this week as we honor the birthday of the United States, and every day of our lives.

May God bless all of us, and the nation we call home, this Independence Day.

Rev. Fr. Michael J. Hinterschied, Pastor – Saint Patrick Church
